

Complaints and Appeals

Complaints are when you're unhappy with the standard of service from your social housing provider

Appeals are when you're unhappy with a decision made by your social housing provider relating to their policies

There are two stages to an appeal:

- First Tier Appeals (internal review of decision with your provider)
- Second Tier Appeals (external review of the decision, including a hearing with the Housing Appeals Committee)

Tribunal

Tribunal, or NCAT, is a separate process to complaints, appeals and the Ombudsman.

You can take your housing provider to the Tribunal by applying to NCAT. You can do this yourself or you can ask a local support service to help you.

If you identify as Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander you can ask to have your case heard in the Aboriginal Tenancy List. Being on the list means you'll be connected with support services and specialist Aboriginal Tenants advocates, your case will be discussed with a designated tribunal Conciliator and you have extra time for a Tribunal Member to decide your case if you are unable to agree on your own solution. Apply online to be on the Aboriginal Tenancy List.

Use the online repairs form
